

Travel to the San Juan Islands

Getting Here is Half the Fun

Drive

Anacortes is going to be your destination before boarding the ferry. Once there, you'll purchase a round-trip ticket to Friday Harbor, which is the only ferry terminal on San Juan Island. After disembarking the ferry, Roche Harbor is a short, 20-minute drive through rural farmland and forests.

Be sure to check the ferry schedule to find out what options you have for the trip over to the island. Also, keep in mind that you don't want to miss the boat, so be sure to make reservations and show up about 60 minutes prior to the scheduled departure time.

*During the summer months, many people decide to drive to the Anacortes ferry terminal, park at the terminal, and then walk on to the ferry. Shuttles and taxis run throughout the day from Friday Harbor (disembarkation) to Roche Harbor.

Fly

Several companies offer regularly scheduled flights from all over the Northwest to Friday Harbor and Roche Harbor. Kenmore Air is the only one to fly regularly scheduled services from Seattle directly to our resort (via floatplane), and also flies into Friday Harbor. San Juan Airlines flies from Anacortes to the Roche Harbor airfield and Friday Harbor, as does NW Sky Ferry.

All of the scheduled-flight airlines operate charters into Roche Harbor and/or Friday Harbor. Other companies that offer charter-only flights in and out of Roche Harbor: Island Air and Westwind Aviation.

Boat

Take a ride on a high-speed catamaran for a quick and easy ferry ride to the Island. You'll board the Victoria Clipper at Pier 69 in downtown Seattle and start your 3.5-hour scenic journey via Deception Pass to Friday Harbor. Once you arrive in town, Shuttles and taxis run throughout the day from Friday Harbor to Roche Harbor. Both options are available seasonally.
